

President Kimball with his counselors, Presidents Tanner and Romney, at a session with news photographers, discuss the upcoming 147th Semi-annual Church Conference.

Conference to begin Saturday

By VICKI VARELA
Universe Staff Writer

The 147th Semi-annual General Conference of the LDS Church will open Saturday in Salt Lake City. General sessions are at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. The Welfare session will be at 7 a.m. Saturday and the general Priesthood meeting at 7 p.m. Saturday. L. Donald LeFevre, assistant director of press relations for the Church's Public Communications department.

President Spencer W. Kimball, at Monday's session with news photographers, said the conference theme will be similar to those of the past — "Obeying the commandments." LeFevre said the theme "usually develops its own."

"I have been feeling good, and I am approaching the conference with confidence," President Kimball said at a press session.

President Kimball looked healthy and was in good spirits. He appeared to have recovered from an illness that hospitalized him for two days two weeks ago.

He joked with photographers as they posed the first presidency for the traditional conference portraits.

When one photographer asked him to smile, President Kimball fired back with a twinkle in his eye, "What, twice in one day?"

The conference welfare session will be broadcast live on KBYU-TV, Channel 11, at 7 a.m. Saturday morning, according to Barbara Gross, traffic manager at KBYU-TV Studio.

The Priesthood session will be broadcast closed-circuit at the Marriott Center at 7 p.m. Saturday night, Miss Gross said.

KSL-TV (Channel 5 in Salt Lake City) will be covering all conference sessions live, and KBYU-TV will be rebroadcasting one session each night from Oct. 4 through Oct. 8 at 9 p.m.

On Oct. 4, the Welfare session will be rebroadcast, and the other sessions will be rebroadcast in chronological order on each consecutive night.

As a special service to the 24,000 hearing-impaired residents of Utah, KBYU will be using simultaneous captions on all KBYU broadcasts.

Miss Gross said this service was offered for the April conference in 1976, and because of positive response has been continued.

White House opens drive for treaty OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Carter administration launched an offensive Monday to obtain congressional approval of the Panama Canal treaties, saying the pacts protect U.S. security interests while showing the United States is not "an imperialistic exploiter."

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance repeatedly told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the United States will have the right to protect the canal's neutrality and keep it open even after Panama takes control of the canal in the year 2000.

"That is the gut question, the key question that bothers me and my colleagues," said Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

"Do we have the right of intervention under this treaty in the understanding of the Panamanians as well as our own?"

Ambassador Sol M. Linowitz, who helped negotiate the treaties, also said the United States will retain permanent priority access to the canal, having been granted in effect "the right to go to the head of the line."

Meanwhile, Secretary of Defense Harold S. Brown and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. George S. Brown, told a House committee the treaties give U.S. forces freedom to defend the canal even against Panama.

But the secretary added he doubted that U.S. could defend the canal from the Panamanians "under present circumstances or future circumstances, given the fragility and vulnerability of the canal."

Both men said they believe the treaties will increase U.S. access to the canal, and Secretary Brown said disruptions would be more likely if the treaties are rejected than if they were ratified.

The Carter administration clearly was hoping to reverse momentum against ratification as the formal national debate on the canal's future opened in the historic Senate caucus room. Committee members acknowledged their mail has run as high as 100 to one against ratification.

And senators referred repeatedly and with apparent concern to the emotionalism of the treaty issue.

But Linowitz said, "In these agreements we have a rare opportunity to demonstrate to the world how a large nation and a small nation can settle their differences amicably...."

"The greatest threat to the operation and security of the canal would be to try to insist upon the tension of the present outmoded treaty..." he said.

"The time may come when we find ourselves in the position of having to defend the canal by force against a hostile population and in the face of widespread condemnation by the countries of Latin America and even the rest of the world," he said.

Students are invited to attend a panel discussion sponsored by the College Republicans on the Panama Canal treaty today at 7:30 p.m. in 375 ELWC.

'Life After Life' author to relate experiences from best selling book

By ALICE TATE

The critically ill woman showed no vital signs, no respiration, no blood pressure, no brainwave activity and was declared dead by the attending doctors.

More than three hours later, the woman recovered and was able to tell how she felt herself float out of her body and look on peacefully as the doctors frantically tried to revive her.

Today's forum speaker, Dr. Raymond A. Moody, has been studying experiences of near death similar to this event and will discuss them in his 10 a.m. speech in the Marriott Center.

Dr. Moody will discuss 15 examples in which near-death experiences resemble each other.

Hearing a loud, uncomfortable ringing noise, seeing friends and relatives who have died and feeling one's spirit "float" out of one's body are three of the most common features of dying, according to Dr. Moody.

His book "Life After Life" is a compilation of interviews with people who came close to death. It also analyzes the experiences people have either while they are dying or just before they actually die.

In most cases people will relate similar experiences, which Dr. Moody believes indicate there is life after life. "Although I'm not asking anyone to accept a view on my authority, after listening to so many experiences, I have no doubt that there is life after death," Dr. Moody said.

"Two things helped convince me," he said. "All the people I talked to were sane, respectable people, and all of their accounts were similar." Dr. Moody suggests, in "Life After Life," that medical technology may account for the increased number of people who survive and are able to relate their experiences.

A survey conducted at BYU by Doug Le Duc, a junior in communications

Dr. Raymond A. Moody ...to speak today from Charleston, Ill., showed that several students at BYU have had near-death experiences similar to the reports in Dr. Moody's book.

The survey, taken for a biology class, asked students if they had ever felt as though their spirits had left their bodies at the time of an accident or serious illness.

Thirteen out of 240 students replied they had such an experience, and 127 of the same students said they had been told of such experiences either by friends or relatives.

Speaking of the near-death phenomena, Dr. Moody said, "Once you are aware of it, it's like suddenly noticing a word you just learned — it pops up everywhere."

McKay appointment criticized

After a weekend of controversy, the appointment of BYU law professor Monroe McKay to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals for the 10th Circuit has settled into a quiet pattern.

The dispute began late Wednesday afternoon by Rex E. Lee, of the J. Reuben Clark Law School, that President Jimmy Carter signed an order appointing the 48-year-old McKay to the seat being vacated by retiring Chief Judge David Lewis of Salt Lake City.

McKay said at that time he had not received any official notification of appointment.

Cease-fire in effect, Israel pulls out troops

ERUT, Lebanon — Israeli armor pulled back southward as the border, and as artillery barrages pounded embattled Lebanon for weeks down Monday as a mediated cease-fire effect. But the nature of the truce remained uncertain.

Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) said a statement late today saying Israel "continuing to shed its circle of session" and was pulling south Lebanon.

The charge could be immediately refuted because reported the battle area in the afternoon.

Earlier reports said the Palestinian-held Lebanese border village of Khiam, a key target of the Israeli-Lebanese Christian offensive, fell silent after the cease-fire went into effect at 10 a.m.

Reports also said there was no sign of guerrilla preparations to pull out in accordance with announced provisions of the agreement for mutual Israeli-Palestinian pullbacks.

"I have had only instructions to observe a cease-fire, and that I will do," said Khiam's guerrilla commander.

At the nearby village of Mari, four Israeli tanks were observed crossing back into Israel. But it was reported that two other Israeli tanks remained in position between Khiam and Marjayoun, one mile to the north, which was held by Israeli-backed Christians.

A PLO spokesman here said earlier Monday that final details of the cease-fire agreement were still being worked out. A small radical guerrilla group, Dr. George Habash's Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, vowed not to abide by it.

In Israel, officials said the cease-fire had taken effect and invited reporters at the border town of Metulla to watch as tanks and armored personnel carriers that provided support for the Christians in Lebanon returned to Israel.

crushing and disheartening," the wire continued. "It violates the integrity of your recent comment that the process (of no political influence) gives the public legitimate assurances that selections are made on the basis of merit."

The Washington Post reported that Michael J. Egan, an associate attorney general at the Justice Department, said Bell's first choice was Watkins, and McKay was second choice.

At press time, Matheson's office had not received a reply from President Carter. Office sources said the governor doesn't plan to make any more statements on the subject.

Meanwhile, Rep. Gunn McKay, D-Utah, admitted asking the speaker of the House to help his brother get the job. Rep. McKay said in the Post report he did not believe he had directly turned the President's decision away from Watkins. "But I don't feel a bit bashful about favoring my brother," he added.

Rep. McKay told the Salt Lake Tribune Washington Bureau that he called House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill "to ask him if he would put in a good word for my brother."

McKay's appointment would make him the second Utahn in history to serve on the 10th Circuit Court. He would also be the first Mormon ever to fill the post.

The court has jurisdiction over cases in Utah, Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Utah man dies in plane crash

A man identified by acquaintances as a follower of polygamist leader Alex Joseph died Sunday night following the crash of a single-engine aircraft near Cedar Fort, about 15 miles west of Lehi.

James David Sullivan, 43, of Glen Canyon City, died on the way to the hospital after he and his companion, James R. Hanegan, 840 W. 400 South, Provo, were rescued by a Civil Air Patrol crew two hours after their Cessna 150 commuter plane crashed, Utah County Sheriff Mack Holley said.

Hanegan was admitted to Utah Valley Hospital and was listed in fair condition late Monday.

A spokesman for Glen Canyon City Constable Bill Tornbom identified the dead man as James Sullivan, one of Alex Joseph's followers, who was evicted from federal land in southern Utah in December 1975 after an attempt to claim the land under homestead laws.

Officials said Sullivan was giving flying instruction to Hanegan in the rented Cessna.

The accident occurred about three miles southeast of an airport belonging to Cedar Valley Aviation Corp., Holley said. The two men had made two training landings at the Cedar Valley Airport and were about to make a third when they decided it was too dark, Holley said. They decided to land at

Air Society to meet Wednesday

Arnold Air Society will sponsor an open house at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in 205 JRCB for all cadets of the Air Force ROTC.

Col. Richard B. Jensen, professor of aerospace studies at BYU, and Capt. John Patrick, assistant professor of aerospace studies, will speak at the open house. Wayne Airmet, Arnold Air Society squadron commander, said.

Arnold Air Society is a service organization made up of cadets in the AFROTC program. Airmet said. "The main goal of Arnold Air society is to develop future outstanding officers for the Air Force."

This goal is achieved through leadership, fellowship and service, according to Airmet.

Angel Flight, a service organization sponsored by Arnold Air society for BYU cadets, will also participate in the open house, Airmet said.

Pioneer, students told

By RICK COLLINS
Universe Staff Writer

Pioneering opportunities are as available today for Latter-day Saints as they were 130 years ago, according to Sunday's 12-episode Fireside speaker. Elder Franklin D. Richards of the First Council of the Seventy said many of today's pioneer opportunities consist of participating in the member-missionary program, increasing the number of people on full-time and stake missions and contributing to the missionary fund.

"God's church has always been a missionary church, and we are required by modern revelation to take the restored gospel to every nation, kindred, tongue and people," Elder Richards said.

Latter-day Saints, according to Elder Richards, have been given the "Every Member a Missionary" program by modern prophets in order to aid in the fulfillment of that requirement. Members should participate in missionary work by finding and fellowshiping persons interested in the gospel, he said.

In order to find interested persons, Elder Richards said, members should live gospel principles, ask friends, neighbors and acquaintances what they know about the church and if they would like to know more, and invite them to their homes to be taught by the missionaries.

He stressed the importance of asking the "golden questions" frequently.

"Sister Richards and I find many fine people who say, 'Yes, I would like to know more' and we arrange for the missionaries to teach them ... some have been baptized, bringing great joy and happiness into our lives," Elder Richards said.

"The opportunity (to ask the golden question) will present itself to you from day to day if you are thinking about it."

He cited examples of people who have had success asking the golden questions. One involved a young man in California who asked families the golden questions while gathering newspapers for a ward project.

"Two families said they would like to know more

Escapee dangerous, state prison warns

Utah State Prison escapee Billy Wayne Black, 34, is being sought after escaping at 2:55 p.m. Friday from the prison.

Provo Police Lt. Buddy Gillman described Black as five feet eight, weighing approximately 150 pounds. He has brown hair, hazel eyes and scars on his left elbow.

Lt. Gillman said Black could be traveling in a rust brown Pontiac Firebird.

about the church and were later taught by the missionaries, fellowshiped and baptized."

Another example given by Elder Richards was that of a sister missionary whose golden questions to a grocery store clerk led to the baptisms of ten people.

Elder Richards said another "fruitful" field for missionary work is with part-member families.

He said many prospective elders and LDS women have married outside the church and should be fellowshiped and taught the missionary discussions in groups.

Regarding converts to the church, Elder Richards said, "Where fellowshiping is effective, generally a high percentage of the converts remain active ... Fellowshiping, however, includes loving converts into the church and giving them work assignments." Elder Richards encouraged "seekers of truth" to investigate Mormonism and to "accept the restored gospel and let it work in their lives."

Four die in racial incidents

KING WILLIAM'S TOWN, South Africa — The death toll rose to four today in racial incidents in South Africa following Sunday's emotional funeral of a black leader Steve Biko. His death, two weeks ago in police detention, has raised new anti-apartheid protests by blacks.

Police Brig. B. J. Smal said two policemen were killed outside a bus terminal when a crowd returned to the funeral. He said the mob looted a shopping complex, set fire to two cars and overturned three vans before riot police opened fire and dispersed the crowd.

Carters pledges strong economic growth

WASHINGTON — President Carter pledged today he will do whatever is necessary to achieve strong non-inflationary growth of the U.S. economy next year and said he is firmly committed to expanding world trade free of barriers.

He told the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund and World Bank in the nation's capital that a strong world economy depends on how individual nations manage their domestic economies.

Man arrested in death of polygamist

SALT LAKE CITY — Six persons have been held in connection with the May 10 slaying of polygamist leader Rulon Allred, a Murray, Utah, physician.

Arrested Friday were Bonnie C. Sullivan, 42, of Denver; Lloyd Sullivan, 51, believed to be the husband of Bonnie C.; Victor Chynoweth, 30; Mark Chynoweth, 25; and Ramona Manston, 30. Also being held in Denver pending action by Mexican authorities on a 1972 murder warrant is Daniel, 43, who had been arrested on a 1969 Selective Service charge.

U.N. begins policy debates

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The U.N. General Assembly began its policy debate Monday, the Security Council starts work on the British-American plan for Rhodesia, and U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance launches two weeks of talks with visiting foreign ministers.

The assembly's annual policy debate will continue for three weeks and will bring chiefs of state, prime ministers and foreign ministers to the podium to line the policies and concerns of each of the 149 member nations.

Series to run Wednesday

The second part of a series about the controversy surrounding the presentation of historical sites in Salt Lake City will not run until Wednesday.

The series began Monday in Monday magazine.

Firemen to visit Provo homes, Y

Firefighters and trucks from the Provo Fire Department are touring the BYU and Provo neighborhoods this week in a home fire prevention campaign effort which will continue through Oct. 7.

In conjunction with the campaign, Assistant Chief Hollis Johnson said a fire truck and firefighters will be on the BYU campus from 2 to 4 p.m. Oct. 3. The truck will be parked on the south side of the Smith Family Living Center with literature available.

"We want to cover all areas of the city this year so that anyone wishing to have his home inspected may make such a request," Johnson said.

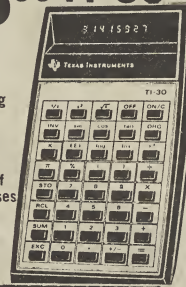

In this year's campaign the firefighters are emphasizing the use of home smoke detectors. Johnson said, "Many people are willing to spend money on fire and life insurance but do not spend money for smoke detectors which may help keep them alive."

The firemen are also emphasizing developing and practicing an escape plan. "We are willing to help the residents determine an escape plan in case of fire," he said.

SHOULD RETAILING BE YOUR CAREER

By learning a few important facts about retailing, you may discover that this fast-paced, rewarding, and expanding field is right for you. Consider the questions posed herein. Then, if you decide retailing should be part of your future, the Skaggs Institute of Retail Management will help you attain your goal.

Will your career begin by chance?

Many people discover the advantages of retailing almost by accident. They accept a part-time or seasonal sales job to supplement their finances, find that they enjoy retailing, discover the breadth of executive opportunities, and remain to develop a career. With an increasing demand for sophisticated executive skills, the "accidental" retailer finds advancement becoming more and more difficult without preparatory training. The Institute assists in developing the kinds of skills needed for rapid advancement to rewarding executive levels in retailing.

Are there many opportunities in retailing?

YES! Fully ten percent of the total U.S. work force is engaged in retail store activities. Opportunities are abundant.

Where are retailing jobs located?

EVERYWHERE. Regardless of the size of local populations, retail outlets are located anywhere you go. The Institute will assist in placing you in the locality of your choice.

Do you want to be well paid?

Retailing's earning potential is nearly unlimited. Rewarding salaries are linked to performance and attainment of managerial and executive positions. Institute training prepares you for more rapid retailing advancement.

Do you want to be your own boss?

Or be part of a large organization? You'll learn how to avoid costly mistakes that untrained retailers often make. You'll choose your own career direction.

Do you enjoy working?

Executives are "doers." If you enjoy originating action, opportunity awaits you in retailing. Taking initiative is rewarding and fulfilling, too.

Are you a "people person"?

Retailing provides the challenges and rewards of working closely with others. In this service-related field, people-oriented executives succeed.

Want to earn while you learn?

FRESHMEN AND SOPHOMORES—If you're interested in considering a retailing career, we will help you find part-time employment while enrolled at BYU or summer work near your home. You'll gain valuable experience on which to base your career decision.

JUNIORS AND GRADUATE STUDENTS—We will help place you in internships in leading stores throughout the country.

THE INSTITUTE IS NOW ACCEPTING INTERNSHIP APPLICATIONS FOR SPRING/SUMMER '78 AND FALL '78

See us soon, placement requires time.

Do you know that many college majors can lead to a retailing career?

Retailing includes much more than just merchandising. These major areas of study fit into the retailing spectrum: IS YOURS ONE OF THEM?

It's a fabulous program. It's very worthwhile for any young person. I wish I'd had that opportunity.

—Jan Jones, Merchandising Assistant Manager Bon Marche—Seattle, Washington

There is a lot more involved than I thought there was at first. The internship has solidified my decision to remain in retailing as a profession.

—David Clark, Retail Intern The Denver—Denver, Colorado

[speaking of two students who just completed their retailing internships] They approached their positions very professionally. If students as qualified as these come from BYU, we'll not have problems filling our training program. We would like to have them back.

—Miss Gail M. Mulkeen, Assistant Manager, Executive Placement Woodward & Lothrop—Washington, D.C.

I worked in retailing before and in personal selling, so it was not new. However, being on internship I was on the other side of management and was able to ask many questions. Now I know what it's like on the management team.

—Joe Nelson, Retail Intern Skaggs Drug Stores—Anaheim, California

[speaking of a retail intern] So far as her productivity, we couldn't ask for anything more. We are providing the opportunities and she is doing everything with them. We are just delighted.

—Mrs. Judith Blumenthal, Director of Training and Development I. Magnin—San Francisco, California

The Internship has really given me a close-up view of what retailing is all about. In total, it was the most successful and rewarding work experience I have ever had.

Oaks answers students' questions

Editor's note: BYU students asked a number of questions which Pres. Dallin Oaks did not have time to answer at the President's Assembly Sept. 13. As a service to students, the Daily Universe will run these questions and President Oaks' answers to them in a series of articles. This is the first in that series.

Why doesn't President Oaks speak more at student functions such as devotionals, firesides, etc.?

President Oaks: My speaking opportunities at BYU firesides and other groups — especially small groups — are the best opportunities I have to meet BYU students. I enjoy them immensely. I do all of this I can, but my time is limited and so are the available dates.

I have a policy of speaking once each year to the entire student body (President's Assembly), of speaking at one function sponsored by each of the 12 BYU Stakes each year (if I am invited), and of speaking once each year at a fireside sponsored by the Cougar Band (to say thanks for their extraordinary service to the university).

Other invitations are considered on an individual basis according to time available. I have to reserve time for my responsibilities as a Regional Representative to eight stakes in the southern part of Salt Lake County, and I must also speak to alumni groups, to prospective donors and to professional or civic groups.

Stimulated by this question, I went back to my office calendar to see how many different audiences I had addressed during the 1976-77 academic year. I found that I spoke to 22 student audiences, 38 BYU audiences who were predominantly non-students, 17 off-campus groups and 31 congregations in connection with my church duties, a total of 108 talks.

In short, I do all I can. If I had my choice I would speak to more student groups and less to others, but to fulfill my responsibilities to the university and to my church calling, I need to speak to a variety of audiences.

Seeks local control

Mayor opposes state housing plans

Provo Mayor Russell D. Grange will oppose the establishment of a state-controlled housing authority when he meets in an executive session of the Governor's Advisory Council this week.

"I oppose the transfer of authority to a Salt Lake office if the local community has no say," Grange said. He said he is concerned that the use of federal money from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) would put legal requirements on the state that could result in a loss of control on the local level.

Grange made the comments at Monday's meeting of the Provo City Commission following a briefing by Ronald Madsen, Provo Housing Redevelopment Director.

Madsen advised the commission the Utah Department of Community Affairs is proposing to eliminate individual city and county housing authorities and set up a single office for the state under its direction.

The office would administer funds from HUD including subsidies provided by Section 8 of the Housing and Community Development Act.

According to Grange, the commission's primary concern is with how the office will handle these subsidies. Madsen told the commission that certification of persons eligible for subsidies, presently handled by individual cities and counties, will be processed through the state.

Under state administration an individual certified for such assistance in one city would retain that certification anywhere else he might move within the state.

"The city official has absolutely no control," Grange said.

Provo has only about 50 housing units under Section 8 subsidies at the present time, according to Madsen. "The citizens of Provo have had a philosophy that opposes federally subsidized housing," Grange said.

"We've been extremely cautious on the housing situation in the past. We think the people expect it."

Y engineer's goal: better wheelchair

Dr. Gayle Miner, professor in electrical engineering, is involved in a unique project funded through the United Way. Dr. Miner is working on a voice-controlled wheelchair.

"Actually, I've been working on the chair for three years," he said. "I, and the others working on the project, became concerned for the handicapped when we realized that necessary aids were over-powerfully expensive, especially wheelchairs. "The middle-class handicapped person has a hard time meeting the costs of aids that would be a tremendous help to them. For example, a regular wheelchair, one that is well-built and usable, costs anywhere from $300 to $400, while a motorized wheelchair runs at least $1,300. The voice-controlled models are, at their lowest, from $10,000 to $20,000."

Dr. Miner said this is the reason for his contribution to the project.

"We are by no means the first to come out with a voice-controlled chair, but we do hope that our model will be a little easier to obtain for the less-than-rich handicapped public."

The idea was first brought to Dr. Miner when he was studying speech analysis several years ago. A student working on his master's degree did a thesis on voice-controlled devices and the experiment was born.

Flea market lecture series planned

"A Flea Market of Ideas," a series of lectures by faculty members, is planned for Wednesday and Thursday.

Fourteen BYU faculty members will present hour-long discussions relevant to students, faculty and Provo citizens, according to Dr. Vernon J. Tipton, a member of the general education committee sponsoring the series.

The flea market's purpose, Dr. Tipton said, is to give students an opportunity to sample ideas from many BYU faculty members.

Professors attending lectures can observe teaching techniques used by their colleagues, Dr. Tipton added.

All Wednesday lectures will be in 347 ELWC, Dr. Tipton said.

Larry H. Peer, associate professor of humanities, will speak at 9 a.m. on "How to Be a Humanist and Really Like It."

At 10 a.m., Bruce W. Jorgensen of the English Department will discuss the Mormon attack on fiction in the 19th century.

Frank B. Salisbury will speak at 11 a.m. on "The Creation." Credibility of authority figures, "Says Who?" will be Honors Program Director Dr. Reba L. Keele's topic at noon.

At 1 p.m. Dr. Neal E. Lambert, English professor, will speak on man's relationship with the wilderness. Following Dr. Lambert, at 2 p.m., Marshall R. Craig, also of the English Department, will discuss the moral value in offensive and inoffensive literature. George W. Pace, church history instructor, will talk at 3 p.m. on programs, principles, ordinances and Jesus Christ.

The Flea Market of Ideas is sponsored once a month by the College of Biological and Agricultural Sciences and the College of General Studies, Dr. Tipton said.

Navajo meeting, banquet planned

The Navajo Nation is sponsoring a Higher Education Orientation workshop today from 1 to 5 p.m. in 168 BRMB.

Peter MacDonald, chairman of the Navajo Tribal Council, will address workshop students tonight at a banquet in 394 ELWC at 6:30, according to Kathy Ellingford, assistant in the Indian Education Department.

KSL-TV co-anchor to lecture

Jackie Nokes, co-anchor for KSL-TV news, is the scheduled speaker at this week's Office Management lecture, sponsored by the Business Education Department.

Mrs. Nokes will speak on her years of experience in communications today at 4:10 p.m. in 115 JKB, according to Dr. Gary R. Smith, director of the Office Management lecture series.

The former "Miss

Jackie" on the Romper Room program has had her own program, "Mid-day," on KSL for several years according to Dr. Smith.

Mrs. Nokes, a native of Driggs, Idaho, has been active in the Cancer Crusade. She is married to Grey Nokes, a Salt Lake attorney and they are the parents of four children.

in a tight squeeze?

Many December grads get caught in a tight squeeze due to a few missing credits. You may suddenly discover that you are short a few credits toward graduation and it's too late to add a class. BYU Home Study can reduce your worries. Every year, Home Study courses are a timely aid to hundreds of students who are faced with scheduling difficulties or who need to fill unexpected credit gaps. We offer you over three hundred college courses, covering a large part of the campus curriculum, including courses to fill general education requirements, many major requirements, and prerequisites for upper-division courses. If you feel squeezed to pick up a few necessary credits, you may complete most Home Study courses in a matter of weeks.

Don't get stuck in the process of graduating—contact BYU Home Study, 210 HRCB. (just south of the library)

BYU scientist Vernon J. Tipton, international authority on fleas and plague, makes a drawing of the specimen under his microscope.

Fleas carry disease

Plague rate rising

During a family outing in the mountains, a small boy, Henry, played with and fed a ground squirrel. Fleas from the squirrel were found on the boy shortly after he complained of swollen glands and became ill. Doctors identified the disease as the bubonic plague.

This scene is typical of a number of cases as the disease has become more prevalent in recent years in the western U.S., said Dr. Vernon J. Tipton, professor of zoology at BYU.

"There is no need for alarm," said Dr. Tipton. "But there is some concern because 12 cases of bubonic plague have been reported in the U.S. this year. During the past four years, there have been 56 human plague cases in the western U.S., which is more than the previous 10 years combined."

"Most cases in the western U.S. in the past 10 years have occurred in the uplands of New Mexico, Arizona and southern Colorado at elevations of 6,000 to 8,000 feet," he said.

A 5-year-old boy died of plague in Utah in 1966, but there have been no additional cases since then, he noted.

In Utah there are 115 different species of fleas, but not all are efficient plague carriers. Most rodent species have their own unique species of fleas, Dr. Tipton said, but not all of them have been implicated as carriers of plague.

Fleas which normally feed on ground squirrels are probably the best carriers of plague. Rodents which harbor fleas capable of transmitting plague are ground squirrels, wood rats and prairie dogs.

"If we invade the plague ecosystems, it is essential that animals are left alone and, particularly, not captured to be taken home as pets, since ground squirrels are the major carriers of plague in Utah. Special caution must be used with them," Dr. Tipton said.

Indian leader accuses U.S.

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — American Indian children are being used by the U.S. government as guinea pigs for medical research "without their parents' permission, a leader of American Indian Movement has charged.

Pat Bellanger, chairman of the movement's board of directors, said many of the children, most of them teenagers, were being used in experiments for research on eye and kidney diseases and new forms of birth control. She said the kidney experiments often left permanent injuries that caused young Indian women to give birth to stillborn babies.

She also charged that hospitalized Indians were often given "blank, ineffective pills" to test the duration of their illness.

Mrs. Bellanger attended the first international "conference on discrimination against indigenous populations of the Americas." She said in an interview that she had "government proof" the experiments had taken place.

She referred to a letter written in November 1976 by a federal comptroller to Sen. James G. Abourezk, D-S.D., in which the official admitted "research" involving Indian children "in three boarding schools" had been carried out with "no informed parental consent."

The Indian movement official also accused the United States, Canada and Mexico of "random child snatching." She charged that white families were being paid by U.S. authorities to act as foster parents to Indian children.

COUGAR FIGHT SONG

Rise, all loyal Cougars, And hurt your challenge to the foe.
You will fight, day or night,
Rain or snow.
Stalwart men and true
Wear the white and blue
While we sing get set to spring,
Come on, Cougars, it's up to you

Oh, rise and shout
The Cougars are out Along the trail to fame and glory

Rise and shout,
our cheers will ring out
As we unfold our victory's story
On you go to vanquish the foe
For Alma Mater's
sons and daughters.
As we join in song
In praise of you,
Our faith is strong
We'll raise our colors
high in the blue
And cheer our Cougars of BYU!!

funding
deadline

The deadline for clubs to submit funding proposals to the ASBYU organizations Review Board (ORB) is 5 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 27. Proposals will be accepted and acted on Oct. 6 through Oct. 17. According to Ken Taylor, ASBYU Organizations Office vice president, the bylaw to establish the board has been rewritten and some new restrictions and procedures have been added. "I want to see the clubs of what they are capable of," he said. "I want to see what they are capable of doing." Before the money to clubs is given, the board will determine how many students will be involved in the project, what students will be affected by the project, and what it will be derived from the project by club officers, ASBYU, BYU, the Provo community. In the past, whoever was first seemed to get the money," Taylor said. "This way there is a fairer distribution of funds will be used for personal expenses, and club efforts in fund-raising activities will also be taken into consideration. He said organizations raising funds will be expected to report how money was spent.

Scarlett O'Hara (Vivien Leigh) poses as sister of Rhett Butler (Clark Gable) as she visits him in jail after Civil War in MGM classic, "Gone With the Wind," now at Varsity Theater, ELWC.

1939 classic now playing

"Gone With the Wind" will be playing until Saturday in the Varsity Theater, ELWC.

The three-hour 42-minute movie has kept its audiences captive since 1939, when it was first released by MGM studios, Clark Gable stars as the roguish Yankee gambler, Rhett Butler, who tries to win the love of a southern belle, Scarlett O'Hara, played by Vivien Leigh.

The role made Gable immortal in the movies, especially his closing line in the film, which was the roughest language ever to be used on film at that time. Miss Leigh played the role of Scarlett so well that audiences have had a hard time picturing her in other roles.

Show times are 3:30 and 7:30 p.m.

'Oz' musical holds auditions today

Potential Dorothys, Tin Men, Cowardly Lions and Munchkins will be auditioned for the Theater and Cinematic Arts Department's production of "The Wizard of Oz" today from 4:15 to 10 p.m.

Auditions will take place in the Purdue Theater Green Room, Dr. Charles W. Whitman, director of the play and associate professor, said. An additional dance audition is scheduled Wednesday for all those who try out today.

All interested individuals must sign up for a specific audition time on the bulletin board outside D581 HFAC, Dr. Whitman said. Scripts are available.

It is preferred that those auditioning prepare the standard musical comedy audition consisting of singing, acting and appropriate movement. Auditions must not exceed three minutes.

If a student wishes to audition only as a singer, actor or dancer, he must also sign up for a time slot. If persons audition together, consecutive time slots should be signed, he added. Recall auditions will be Thursday and Friday.

Everyone who can meet the rehearsal times and performance dates is invited to audition. Performances for "The Wizard of Oz" will be held Nov. 17-19, 22-26 and Dec. 1-3 at 8 p.m. Matinees are scheduled for Nov. 21 and 28 at 12:30 and 4:30 p.m., and Nov. 29 and 30 at 12:30 and 8 p.m. Additional performances may be added to accommodate demand.

Assisting Dr. Whitman as musical director is Karen Null and, as choreographer, Craig Call. Miss Null was associate director for "Peter Pan" and musical director for "Guys and Dolls." Call has been a dancer in "Peter Pan," a performer in the Sundance Summer Theater and choreographer for "Shenandoah" and the original production of "Saturday's Warrior."

The music for "The Wizard of Oz" is that of the motion picture by Harold Arlen and E.Y. Harburg, as are the characters and general story line by Frank L. Baum. This production, however, will be an upbeat "now-dream-of-flowers" version.

The directors said they "hope the entire student body will audition" for the musical. According to Dr. Whitman, "Those auditioning should realize that the group chosen as the cast for 'The Wizard of Oz' will be working together for a long time and must be willing to put the show first and self second."

Y musicians win Fair awards

Students representing BYU swept the awards for musical performance in voice and piano at the Utah State Fair Music Competition.

In competition held Sept. 8 to 11, the winning students were: first place, Mack Wilberg in the senior piano division; second, Kendall R. Bean; third, Greg Harwood; and an honorable mention to Jane Gibson.

In the senior vocal co-competition Cynthia Pannel was awarded first place honors; Heidi Lasley, second place; and Chlois Crane, third place. In the junior vocal division, Laura Wilkinson placed second.

Several other BYU instrumentalists received honorable mentions in the fair competition. They include Craig Nytech, clarinet; Susan Mathews, stage bass; and Lysa Wight, harp.

The competition first-place winners will also have the privilege of performing in the Salute to Y Concert sponsored annually by the Deseret News. Iain McKay, director of concert promotions and public relations for the Music Department, said.

"Near-Death Experiences"

RAYMOND A. MOODY, Jr.

Ph.D., M.D., Author of

Life after Life

The Experience

A man is dying and, as he reaches the point of greatest physical distress, he hears himself pronounced dead by his doctor. He begins to hear an uncomfortable noise, a loud ringing or buzzing, and at the same time feels himself moving very rapidly through a long dark tunnel. After this, he suddenly finds himself outside of his own physical body, but still in the immediate physical environment, and he sees his own body from a distance, as though he is a spectator. He watches the resuscitation attempt from this unusual vantage point and is in a state of emotional upheaval.

After a while, he collects himself and becomes more accustomed to his odd condition. He notices that he still has a "body," but one of a very different nature and with very different powers from the physical body he has left behind. Soon other things begin to happen. Others come to meet and to help him. He glimpses the spirits of relatives and friends who have already died, and a loving, warm spirit of a kind he has never encountered before — a being of light — appears before him. This being asks him a question, nonverbally, to make him evaluate his life and helps him along by showing him a panoramic, instantaneous playback of the major events of his life. At some point he finds himself approaching some sort of barrier or border, apparently representing the limit between earthly life and the next life. Yet, he finds that he must go back to the earth, that the time for his death has not yet come. At this point he resists, for by now he is taken up with his experiences in the afterlife and does not want to return. He is overwhelmed by intense feelings of joy, love, and peace. Despite his attitude, though, he somehow reunites with his physical body and lives.

Later he tries to tell others, but he has trouble doing so. In the first place, he can find no human words adequately to describe these unearthly episodes. He also finds that others scoff, so he stops telling other people. Still, the experience affects his life profoundly, especially his views about death and its relationship to life.

'Starbuck' says 'eager to return' to pillow concert

The rock 'n' roll group Starbuck will perform in a Pillow Concert Oct. 7.

Russ Tanner, Social Office public relations administrator, said the group was "eager to return" to BYU after the reception they received for their Pillow Concert performance in February.

"We discovered on a Tuesday morning that the group would be in the area and had to schedule them for a Thursday night performance," Tanner said. "Many missed out on what was possibly one of last year's best concerts because of their quick arrival."

Starbuck plays a "unique brand of southern rock 'n' roll," using African instruments, marimbas, flutes, percussions and vibes, Tanner said.

"They have received tremendous reception on bills with Boston, Seals and Croft, Electric Light Orchestra, England Dan and John Ford Coley, Hall and Oates, Marshall Tucker Band, Wild Cherry and Styx," he noted.

The seven-member group plays about 300 nights a year to an average of 3,000 to 7,500 people, according to Tanner.

Starbuck has a current album, "Rock and Roll Rocket" and has had a hit single, "Moonlight Feels Right."

Tickets cost $2.50 and go on sale Thursday in the Wilkinson Center third floor ticket office.

Starbuck talks to Y audience at Pillow Concert held winter. Group will return for concert Oct. 7.

Synthesis, ensemble an Thursday concert

Synthesis and the BYU Symphonic Ensemble will present a joint Thursday at 8 p.m. in the concert hall.

Synthesis, S.R.O., is so named for its reputation for full performances, Iain McKay, of concert promotions and relations for the Music Department.

Synthesis has gained a reputation as one of the top collegiate jazz-rock and improvisation groups whose members are not only in performance and show, but are also talented composers and arrangers.

Summer Synthesis was one of American groups invited to perform in Hungary and a Synthesis also performed as a group for last year's Mangione concert in the Center.

Symphonic Wind Ensemble is the first hands to have standard notation; there is only one person playing a part, rather than an entire section. As a result, the composer can rely on the sound of his composition in each musical section, allowing the composer freedom to expand and complicate his piece, and allowing the ensemble to perform works too intricate and difficult for a band.

Both performance groups, under the direction of K. Newell Dayley, director of bands, have received national acclaim. The joint program for Thursday will commence with the Symphonic Wind Ensemble performing "Suite" by Jeremiah Clarke, "Night on Bald Mountain" by Moussorgsky, "Suspiros de Espana" by A. Alvarez, selections from "Annie" by Charles Strauss and "Rhapsody for Concert Band and Jazz Ensemble" by Pat Williams.

Synthesis will conclude the concert by performing eight numbers, including "Front Burner," "The Cat Walk," "A Creature of Many Faces," "Long Yellow Road" and "Low Fat."

Clubs offer information, seek members has time to get involved? Students going the Wilkinson Center this week may decide number of BYU clubs have set up information at the ELWC Reception Center to give students a chance to investigate and find out what clubs have to offer. The clubs are answering questions and signing up prospective members.

of the clubs and what they are offering this include:

Allegiate Ladies, sister club to the Intercollegiate Knights, emphasizes service, sacrifice and Members participate in lighting the block ring at school events and selling programs at games and are the traditional clowns in the homecoming parade.

The Intercollegiate Knights, a national honorary service fraternity, sells programs at games and lights the Y. The club was recently given the go-ahead by administration and ASBYU officers to move the victory bell from its present location near the Richards Building to the Marriott Center.

Sigma Epsilon, the only pep club on campus, works closely with the ASBYU Athletic office. Its members also perform skits at pep rallies, mix the whitewash for the Y and promote school spirit.

Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity, participates in the handicapped swimming program and Boy Scout programs. It also sells stadium chairs at football games.

The Alpine Club plans backpacking, cross-country skiing, hiking and possibly hang gliding as club activities this semester. The club offers equipment for members' use and features a yearly climb of Timpanogos.

The British Heritage Society stresses genealogy and the history of England. It celebrates "Guy Fawkes Day," Nov. 5, by burning an effigy of Guy Fawkes atop a huge bonfire.

The Star Trek Club plans to show science fiction films, "Star Trek" flicks and "Star Wars" and is establishing a library of "Star Trek" material and science fiction books.

The BYU Ski Racing Club plans preseason dry land training, races, help sessions on repair and maintenance of skis and bindings and a spring cross-country trip.

The National Homebuilders Association builds wooden toys which are donated to the Primary Children's Hospital and among other activities, plans to attend the National Home Show in Dallas.

Britons Robert Stephen, senior in sociology from London, and Jackie Moore, junior in nursing from Southampton, work at club booth.

Trade deficit $2.7 billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States had more trouble finding foreign buyers for its products in August as the country's monthly trade deficit grew to $2.7 billion, the second largest on record, the government said Monday.

Commerce Department officials said exports declined mainly because other countries are having worse economic problems than the United States and cannot afford to buy U.S. goods.

American businesses exported $9.6 billion in products last month, a 5.6 percent drop from July and the smallest amount in 16 months.

However, the United States had to rely less on imports, which declined 2 percent to $12.2 billion last month. Oil imports, which have caused most of the trade imbalance this year, declined 9 percent to $3.3 billion.

Still, Americans were buying 27 percent more goods from abroad than they were selling overseas. The $2.7 billion deficit followed a $2.3 billion deficit the month before and a record $2.8 billion deficit in June.

The trade deficit for the year already is $17.6 billion, far above the $2.3 billion for the first eight months of last year.

A trade deficit means more dollars are leaving the country to pay for foreign goods than the United States is earning from sale of its goods abroad. It means a loss of purchasing power for Americans and can result in reduced employment and production at home.

The drop in U.S. exports coincided with a slowdown in economic activity throughout the world, especially in the industrial nations of Europe and Japan.

Officials of the International Monetary Fund (IMF), which is holding its annual meeting in Washington this week, have urged strong countries to promote economic growth so they will import more goods and help the overall world economy.

Coinciding with the economic slowdown has been an increase in world unemployment to recent recession levels.

IMF Managing Director H. Johannes Witteveen, in an address Monday, urged nations to abandon policies that have stressed anti-inflation efforts, saying they have contributed to high unemployment and slow growth.

He also cautioned the United States against trying to reverse its trade deficit drastically or erect barriers to imports of other nations.

Honors Program advisory panel to hold meeting

The first meeting of the Honors Program Advisory Council (HAC) is set for 10 a.m. Thursday in 6225 HBL.

Dr. Reba L. Keele, director of the Honors Program, will introduce the HAC and discuss what it has to offer scholastically minded students. Subcommittees will be formed for curriculum, communication, exchanges and socials.

According to Jeff Taylor, HAC executive committee member, the council's goal is to help the student take a more active role in improving his scholastic abilities. Taylor said the HAC will be a sounding board for students to express feelings about the quality of their education.

"The HAC will provide the student with a chance to give some feedback regarding his educational experience at BYU and to participate in activities and the development of a new program," Taylor said.

The symposium is second in a series which will continue through the semester and deals with improving study and test-taking skills, according to Glade Tuckett, speaker's chairman for the Academics Office.

Pope's work praised on eightieth birthday

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI marked his 80th birthday Monday with a regular day of work while world leaders lauded his drive for world peace. He appeared in good health despite his stated belief that death is approaching.

President Carter's message of congratulations cited the Pope's "tireless efforts to promote human rights" and "deep appreciation for the moral leadership."

As on previous birthdays of his 14-year-old papacy, the pontiff shunned excessive public observance. The white and yellow Vatican flag used to mark such occasions was raised over public buildings, but the offices remained open.

"It's a normal workday for him," said the Vatican press director, the Rt. Rev. Romeo Panciroli.

He added there were no private celebrations either — or even a birthday cake. The Pope had lunch with his private secretaries, as he often does, bypassing any birthday observance with relatives.

However, the Pope asked the diocese of Brescia, his birthplace, to have a wreath of flowers put on the tomb of his parents.

The only public function of the day was to inaugurate a 12-ton bronze door for St. Peter's Basilica, a birthday gift from an Italian sculptor.

On the eve of his birthday, the Pope told some 50,000 well-wishers at St. Peter's Square that passing years bring him closer to the end of his "temporal life ... This obliges us to great humility. We feel the fragility of being human."

Vatican officials and the Pope's close friends say the pontiff is in good health for a man of his age, suffering only from arthritis that pains his right knee and makes him need help as he sits down or gets up.

The Pope's confidants also discount speculation that he may step down as the spiritual head of the world's 700 million Catholics because he is 80, the retirement age he set for his cardinals.

Thousands of birthday telegrams poured into the small post office of the Vatican city-state. President Carter relayed his "warmest congratulations" and praised papal efforts to "build a more peaceful world" and "to pursue justice and dignity for all mankind."

Nielsen named 'back of the week'

Wins UPI, AP backfield honors, sets yardage, passing records

BYU Quarterback Gifford Nielsen is starting to gain national honors which will help in race for Heisman trophy.

Editors note: BYU quarterback Gifford Nielsen was named to the UPI backfield of the week Monday for his performance against Utah State Saturday. The only other game Nielsen played in, Kansas State, won him similar national honors from the Associated Press. Nielsen is expected to be honored again by AP as well as UPI, but at press time it was not confirmed.

DENVER — Watch out if BYU quarterback Gifford Nielsen ever gets to play the entire game.

In two outings he's seen barely five quarters of action, but already has passed for 639 yards and eight touchdowns.

His effort at Utah State on regional television has earned him Western Athletic Conference Offensive Player of the Week honors.

Gifford played two and a half quarters, passed 40 times, hitting on 30 for 321 yards and six touchdowns. BYU won 65-6.

Nielsen decided the issue early. BYU won the coin flip, chose the wind, kicked off, and after Utah State fumbled on the third play of the game, Nielsen found John VanDerVouden open for a 33-yard scoring bomb. The game was only 46 seconds old.

Nielsen ended that first quarter with 13 for 15 for 165 yards and three scores.

Several records fell en route. Gifford now has 5,392 yards, having surpassed former BYU record holder Virgil Carter (5,125 yards) on Saturday. He now ranks No. 2 on the WAC career charts.

Sports

The Daily Universe

His 374 completions passed the career mark for another former Cougar, Gary Sheride, who had 358, and also is a new WAC record. Nielsen needs 630 yards to become the WAC's all-time passing leader, a record currently held by former Arizona Stater Danny White at 5,932 yards.

Coach Lavell Edwards said, "This was his finest moment."

Nielsen currently leads the conference in passing offense and total offense. BYU, as a team, leads the WAC in total offense with 541 yards as a game average. BYU receiver Mike Chromiter leads the conference in receptions with 15 catches for a 7.5 average per game.

Other nominees were: — Arizona State trio of Steve Hicks

(for his game-winning 41-yard goal with 39 seconds left), I. Spruill (for passing stats of 17 two touchdowns and 252 yards), John Jefferson (for his seven 0 for 15 yards and two scores — on 14-yard reception and one on yard run.)

— Ron Bayer, Arizona tight end, who caught three passes for 41 and blocked well in a 41-7 win at Two of his catches set up scores.

— Steve Anderson, Colorado guard who graded out as the blocker on the Ram offensive line 48-10 win over Northern Colorado.

— Rick Partridge, Utah punter, boomed kicks for a 46.6 average, 34-16 loss to Houston, continuing the Cougars in the hold

Y soccer team places fourth

The BYU soccer team took fourth place in the Far West Classic held at Biola College, La Mirada, Calif., last weekend. BYU took seventh place in this event last year.

Eight teams, including two nationally-ranked, and the University of Dublin from Ireland participated in this year's classic, reported BYU Soccer Coach Jim Dursula. Although BYU was fourth, "The team put on remarkable performances, defeating Westmont on penalty kicks 5-4 in the most thrilling game I ever witnessed," he said.

The next day, BYU faced the hot favorite, nationally ranked Chico State University. The game was another thriller, said Dursula.

BYU was down 2-0 and made a brilliant comeback 2-2 before halftime as Carlos Amorim and Brig Ord led the Cat attack.

"The team played with determination and continued fighting hard against a well-known and more experienced Chico team. It was in the last 30 seconds Chico scored their winning goal from a shot that should have been blocked by left fullbacks and the stopper. Overall, BYU played a commendable game against Chico State," reported the coach.

On Saturday BYU played its last game against the University of Dublin from Ireland. The Irish were more highly skilled players, but BYU compensated for skill with determination, speed and aggressiveness. The Cats lost 3-1, but the score does not actually indicate the level of competition BYU played. Dursula said, "BYU has better-skilled players, but they played more like individuals than as a team."

Giving examples, Dursula said, "Our players, Hugh Rodden and Daniel Perera, are talented ballplayers and could make a lot of contribution to the forwards by creating more opportunities for scoring, but instead they hang back for seconds too long. I am sure they realize and will definitely improve for the coming game."

This weekend BYU plays Utah State on Friday 5 p.m. followed by Weber State versus Denver University at 7 p.m. for the Rocky Mountain collegiate Soccer League. Oct. 4, BYU faces toughest challenge in playing the University of Francisco, two-time NCAA champion.

Soccer tickets are $1 for students, public children under 12 free.

Sports notes include quips from press box, Heisman candidates

By DICK HARMON
Universe Sports Editor

After three weeks of NCAA football, the Western Athletic Conference remains tied (9-9-1) in competition against non-conference foes.

Heisman Trophy report

Jack Thompson, the high-flying, throwin' Samson from Washington State, finally had the law of averages catch up with him. Against Kansas this weekend, Thompson had three of his aerials picked off, one for a 75-yard touchdown, a 134th ranked Washington State lost to Kansas 14-12.

The nation's second leading passer (behind BYU's Nielsen), Freshman Mark Herrman of Purdue passed for 315 yards and three touchdowns with three interceptions to lead the Boilermakers to a victory over Notre Dame. Oklahoma State's Terry Miller gained 161 yards on 29 carries for two touchdowns to lead the Cowboys past WAC doormat Texas El Paso. Even though the stats are not considered an outstanding performance by Miller's own standards, the game has to make Miller one of the leaders in the battle for the Heisman.

BYU quarterback Gifford Nielsen's 30 completions in 40 attempts Saturday established him solidly above all other college passers in number of completions — the statistic that determines the NCAA passing leader. Nielsen's yardage was held down because of field position and lack of long drives. His six touchdown passes were second to Long Beach State's Paul McGaffigan, who had seven TD strikes last week.

Nielsen phenomenon

The two most phenomenal factors in Saturday's victory will not show on any record book. First, Gifford could very well have been 39 out of 40, which would have shaken up everybody's record book, as actually only one of his passes was out of reach of his receiver. Second, Nielsen played just over half the ball game; if he continues to leave games in the fourth and third quarter, he will have missed the equivalent of three full football games after it's all over.

Press box observations

A sportswriter in the Utah State press box, who spent the summer in Syracuse, N.Y., reading eastern publications, was asked prior to the game that Gifford Nielsen had little chance to win the Heisman because of his region and school. He wondered how good Giff was, saying that the BYU receivers accentuated his ability. Ten minutes after the game, the reporter said, "Not only is Nielsen one of the smartest quarterbacks in the nation, but his poise is incredible. He's a take-charge player. There's no question about his talent as a quarterback, and he has a legitimate chance to win the Heisman."

The reporter said, "BYU's line was tremendous. They can hit. Lance Reynolds is a devastating blocker, he knocks people down...he really does." The press box announcer told reporters prior to the game, "The Utah State press box is a professional working facility. There is no cheering allowed, and those in violation will be referred to campus security and will be escorted out of the facility."

After Gifford's first touchdown pass 42 seconds into the game, Marion Dunn of the Provo Herald, BYU sports information director Dave Schulthess, and Universe sports editors stole glances and grins. But when Utah State's Eric Hipple fired a 62-yard touchdown bomb to Jimmy Bryant, there was pandemonium in the box. The same thing happened when Tony Hernandez, BYU defensive back had been called for pass interference — and the flag was late in coming — there were "professionals" clapping at the windows, banging the table and exercising their throats.

We smiled a lot Saturday.

Observations from stands

One elderly Aggie fan sitting in the bleachers said to his wife during the second quarter, "As soon as that number 14 gets four touchdowns, I'm gonna go. Honey." They left two minutes later.

"I don't care for BYU's dress standards. Those cheerleaders look like they don't either," quipped one beer-drinking Aggie to his buddy sitting behind the Cougar band. The other added, "Yeah, but in a few more minutes (to heck) with our team, I'm going to cheer for Gifford and see what he does."

From the sideline

After running back Casey Wingard scored his first TD, on a 45-yard scamper, the entire BYU team cheered; others ran to meet him and give him the customary slap on the helmet. What television viewers and people in the stands did not know is that Wingard ran for that final touchdown with tissue stuffed up both his nostrils. He had a bloody nose several plays before. Tissue paper does wonders for breathing.

Reserve quarterback Marc Wilson was knocked cold during the contest, after carrying for nine yards. Later in the contest Wilson, with renewed vigor, returned to the game, but he seemed shaken by wisdom as he hit the deck when opposing linemen were about to hit him. Gifford Nielsen, kneeling on the sidelines, yelled to Wilson, who was retreating to the huddle, "That's the way, Number Six!" Nielsen, a veteran of hitting the deck, likes to stay conscious.

One of most excited BYU players on the sidelines was fullback Todd Christensen, who scored three touchdowns. He continually repeated praise for his teammates and especially Gifford, and yelled for reserves to finish some of the punishment he had inflicted. Even though an offensive back limited to running and blocking (no tackling) Christensen had the respect of the Aggie secondary. On one particular screen play, Christensen turned upfield and bowled over three Aggie defenders, leaving all three sprawled on the turf.

Perhaps the greatest inflictor of pain was ABC's defensive player of the game, BYU linebacker Rod Wood. During the fourth quarter, Wood was often the secondary tackler, and the USU backs would make a great effort to get to the ground before he came to aid. Some Aggie backs could be seen wincing even before Wood hit them, knowing that they were due to be 15 yards out-of-bounds upon impact.

Paul Harvey letters

Last week, news commentator Paul Harvey asked for listeners to let him know how BYU quarterback Gifford Nielsen did over the weekend. For those interested in dropping Paul a line, his address is: Paul Harvey, Box 696, Chicago, Ill. 60606.

BYU women employees, women spouses and university coeds are being offered a 10-week Slimnastics course, beginning Sept. 27, sponsored by Special Courses and Conferences.

According to Gary Bascom, conference coordinator, the course is a very popular one featuring activity and instruction in the areas of fitness, weight control, nutrition, exercises for specific figure problems, and extracurricular sport activities.

The class, taught by Ruth Nielsen, will meet every Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in 131 RB. Tuition for the course is $34 with an additional $6 charge for those not qualifying for faculty/staff or dependent privileges. For additional registration information, call ext. 3556.

BYU basketball coaches seek applicants for JV manager slots

The BYU junior varsity basketball team is now accepting applications for the position of two managers to help with the approaching 1977-78 basketball season.

According to Kerry Yates, head varsity manager for the Cougars, those interested should come to a meeting Thursday at 3:30 p.m. at the Cougar Room, next to the ticket office in the Marriott Center.

Managers for the Cougar team are required to assist the coach in all the team needs, have each day open from 1 to 3 p.m. daily, and know basketball.

They will need to bring with them a one-paragraph summary of what experience they have had and why they feel they should be managers.

Practice for the Cougars begins officially Oct. 17 for the junior varsity, but the managers will be needed before then to prepare for the coming season. The varsity team begins practice officially on Oct. 15, said Yates.

Prominent Provo dentist leads local Cougar Club

Dr. Phillip P. Taylor of Provo has been named president of the Utah County Chapter, BYU Cougar Club, according to Dale R. McCann, Cougar Club executive secretary.

Dr. Taylor, a practicing dentist, formerly served as president of the Downtown Coaches Club. As Cougar Club president, he will help lead activities supporting the BYU athletic program.

A long-time BYU backer, Dr. Taylor expressed excitement over his new position: "BYU athletic activities are off to a great start," he stated.

"With the enthusiastic support of the Cougar Club, I'm sure it will be a great year." His first duty as president will be to preside at the Utah County Chapter luncheon Wednesday at the Riverside Country Club at 11:30 a.m.

Tonight's night to visit with SW

The SW Club, formerly the Sports-women, is planning an open house today at 7:30 p.m. in the ELWC Skyroom.

According to Jolene Winn, SW president, "We would like to extend an invitation to anyone interested to come and find out what the SW club is all about."

She said because of Title IX legislation, the Sports-women were forced to change their name to SW. "We are a club that puts the emphasis on the 'Total You.' We include the social, physical, cultural, spiritual and academic aspects of life."

She said the club puts a high emphasis on sports and play in all the intramural activities on campus. "But our main purpose is to achieve a oneness — a sisterhood with the other members of the club."

For further information, Miss Winn can be reached at BYU ext. 4252.
